

Ms. A. 9. 2. 1. 1816

Esteemed Sir!

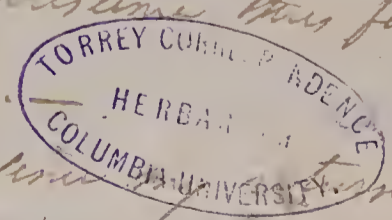

Charleston October 8. 1816.

I should scarce have presumed at this season, to have time, which I perceive you are again about to devote so much honour to yourself and advantage to the rising generation in your Professorship in the University; did I not know, that you have so arranged that time; as to be at liberty to devote a share of it to friends.

The very marked, and polite attention which you honoured me with last Fall; as also that, which through your politeness I experienced from the rest of the Professors in the University; claims my warmest gra-titude; and as it is a maxim that "one good turn deserves another" I am induced, having had already several good turns of you, to request you to make good the good old maxim. in doing me another good turn. — It is this, to interest yourself in behalf of my Elements of Medicine so that it may be announced to the world, in such way as your good judgment will direct; I am well aware that at this time; no work of the kind, from an author so much "unnoticed and unknown" to the world as myself; would meet with appropriate encouragement; unless it was brought into notice by some Gentlemen of the first standing in the Medical and Literary School of America.

I have been constrained to make such remarks as a friend of mine a candidate for Medical honours in the University of Pennsylvania; who had presented my prospectus to the Professors and Students; was repelled, by the very appropriate remarks above alluded to, and has written me that unless some Gentlemen well known in the Lite-rary world; will befriend the author so far, as to introduce him to the No-tice of the Philadelphians, that he despairs of obtaining no, more subscribers than those Students from Charleston. Since the ever to be lamented late of my esteemed friend and preceptor Doctor Ranney; I have turned my attention to yourself and Doctor Horack. Permit me to look up to you as a friend and Patron; in his stead; and if I could, become thus far, I would at least the same indulgence from Doctor Horack.

I have been six months some time from your City in a poor state of health; and thus time so ill as to delay at my recovery - So that I have had scarce the opportunity of attending to my subscription; I have however procured about 230 or 50 very good names - and I am assured that if notice be taken of the work in any of the periodical publications, or even the Public journals it will not fail to stimulate, the Citizens of the South to come forward generously to dissipate

The Literary and Philosophical Society of I. C. is progressing in numbers, and have the offer of a very handsome collection of M. L. Herminier of Guadeloupe; which he has been twenty years collecting; and the society purchase this museum, it will drain them of all their funds; and hence the Transactions of the Society will have to remain still unpublished for some months more.

Mr Elliott's first number of the Sketch of the Botany of I. C. and Georgia is published; it will rank among the first works on Botany in America. —

My friend Mr Grantland, who is a student in the University, will hand you this; and permit me to offer to yourself and through you to Professor Horatio Stansbury, McMerin & Moore the assurances of my personal respect and esteem; and with the most polite sentiments of regard for Mrs. Mitchell & yourself, believe me

Dear and Esteemed Sir

Yours sincerely

L. M. Shreve
